This is an eclectic selection of textile artists including Rosemary Lindsay, Sharon Lindsay Ferguson and Nigel Cheney, amongst others.

The variety of work included attests to the effectiveness of textile art as an alternative visual approach, where a myriad of different styles, techniques, textures and media are used to demonstrate the diversity and scope of working with textiles.

D.I.V.A - Directing Irish Visual Arts - is an artist agency that represents contemporary visual artists of all disciplines. Established in 2005, D.I.V.A provides opportunities for professional and up-and-coming artists by promoting their work, sourcing exhibitions and providing a platform on which to promote, expose and sell their art-work.

D.I.V.A's objective is to make contemporary visual art, of high quality, accessible both nationally and internationally. This is achieved via our online-gallery and by exhibiting work in solo and group exhibitions throughout Ireland.

D.I.V.A's service provides - the artist with both online and actual gallery forums;

the art-enthusiast an alternative to browse and purchase original art-work online and notification regarding upcoming D.I.V.A exhibitions;

the gallery an opportunity to choose from our roster of visual artists of all disciplines including Painting, Print, Textile Art, Ceramics, Glass Sculpture, Wearable Art and more.

D.I.V.A was set up by Eimear Chaomhánach (BA, M.Litt, MA) and Sharon Ferguson (MA, B.Des.Text).
