"Cúirt sa Cistin"
Heritage Inchicronan - Community Centre, Crusheen

Wednesday, 16th of September at 8.15 p.m.

An informal evening with Dr. Patricia Monaghan.

Dr. Monaghan will discuss the concept of Traditional Ecological Knowledge, also known as "native science," and how folk traditions sometimes contain scientific information. She will especially focus on the nettle and hawthorn in terms of their nutritious and poisonous aspects, respectively.

Patricia Monaghan is interested in talking with people about traditional concepts of the nettle and the hawthorn, as well as current use (or avoidance) of the plants. She is writing a paper on the science behind Irish folklore and would appreciate comments or stories about these plants. Nettle recipes welcome!

Patricia Monaghan is Professor of Interdisciplinary Studies at DePaul University in Chicago, where she teaches literature and environmental studies. She is currently working on the science behind Irish folklore. She is the author of four books of poetry and over 20 books of nonfiction, including an encyclopedia of Celtic folklore. Her newest book, "The Red-Haired Girl from the Bog: The Landscape of Celtic Myth and Spirit", explores the way that Irish mythology expresses the power of the Irish land.'

Mind The Gap

September 5 - 20, 2009
Open Wed-Sun, 2-7 pm

Mind The Gap is a collaborative public art project initiated by Michelle Browne to work with artists, designers, architects and planners to look at open spaces in the city and consider new uses for them. Over the course of two months the group have explored areas across Dublin city considering how we can re-imagine our civic society. Throughout Absolut Fringe we will present a range of interventions that will inform and delight.

The hub of the Mind the Gap operation, thisisnotashop gallery will host an exhibition of ideas for the city. Inspired by the urban myth that Santiago Calatrava designed the James Joyce Bridge on the back of a napkin, we invite you, the viewer, to present your ideas for the city of an ever-expanding array of napkins. The gallery will also host The Smithfield Archive presenting the history of the area and unrealized proposals for its regeneration.

Mind The Gap is an Absolut Fringe Commission.

A look at Adult Education and Extension Programs in Ireland - What we refer to today as modern Adult Education most likely originated within the European political system. Following the Industrial Revolution, which occurred during the 17th and 18th centuries, Adult Education was also formed in the way of vocational classes for the working class. Adult Education in Germany and Switzerland was offered in the form of Continuation schools for workers and England fostered the educational learning its' poor through Adult Schools of the Society of Friends in England (1845). Memory of the World Documentary heritage reflects the diversity of languages, peoples and cultures. It is the mirror of the world and its memory. But this memory is fragile. Every day, irreplaceable parts of this memory disappear for ever.

UNESCO has launched the Memory of the World Programme to guard against collective amnesia calling upon the preservation of the valuable archive holdings and library collections all over the world ensuring their wide dissemination.

Hags, Queens and Wise Women: Supernatural Females of the Irish Otherworld
RTÉ Radio 1 - September - October 2006.
Gearoid Ó Crualaoich reveals the results of his investigations into the feminine in Gaelic tradition. He explains how the female goddess of ancient Irish cosmology was finally reduced by patriarchal powers to the role of hag. He brings together depth, psychology, Irish legends and a thousand years of Gaelic literature in a fascinating and challenging presentation.
Readings by Niall Toibin and Macdara O Fatharta
The seven-part series is produced by Cathal Póirtéir

Beeld voor Beeld (Image by Image) positions itself at the crossroads of visual anthropology, documentary filmmaking and politics. Often questions on the representation of other cultures should rise, as the images almost always reach us through a western perspective. The festival therefore screens challenging documentaries, often from an unexpected angle.

Documentary Educations Resources - DER - We produce, distribute and promote quality ethnographic, documentary and non-fiction films from around the world. We were founded in 1968 by independent filmmakers whose collaborations reflect a lifetime of engagement and respect for their subjects. Documentary Educational Resources' films foster cross-cultural understanding through educational video and film.
