

This week's film screening takes place on SATURDAY in MacNamara's Bar.

Soy Cuba (I Am Cuba) was rediscovered and presented to the world by Martin Scorsese and Francis Ford Coppola at the Sundance and Cannes film festivals, to standing ovations and critical acclaim.

Looking forward to seeing you there.

Saturday 24th February - 8.30pm
MacNamara's Bar, Scarriff

SOY CUBA

Directed by: Mikhail Kalatozov
Cuba/USSR, 1964, 141mins, Cert: PG

"For its sheer dazzling technique, and the glorious beauty of its monochrome cinematography, this Soviet-Cuban hymn from 1964 to the Castro revolution deserves impregnable classic status. Director Mikhail Kalatozov follows the progress of the revolution from the poolside decadence of Batista's Havana, the pauperisation of the tenant farmers, through to the student agitation, and finally the arrival of Castro's troops from their mountain stronghold in the east. Soy Cuba is a gripping, if stylised, historical document, combining the high-minded severity of Russian cinema with the exuberance of Vigo or Fellini."

Peter Bradshaw, The Guardian

"One of the most deliriously beautiful films ever made"
LA Weekly

"Visually staggering... deliciously choreographed... Soy Cuba is one gorgeous image after another. Astounding."
Variety

Admission: €7

Midnight Court Film Society
midnightcourt@greenguide.ie
065 6831930
086 1225569