

Wildlife Garden Seminar

Rosscahill National School June 16th

The course will run from 10:30 until about 2:00pm and will be led by wildlife gardening specialist Kay Synott who has done such excellent work with the parents and pupils on the garden of the school in Rosscahill, Co Galway.

Topics covered will include designing your garden, planting for birds and insects, wildlife ponds, creating habitats for garden animals, school gardens and involving children in the garden.

This course is free of charge and everyone is welcome. The workshop will particularly appeal to teachers or parents who would like to make a wildlife garden for kids as well as beginner and experienced gardeners who would like some fresh ideas on making their garden more wildlife friendly.

This workshop has been organised by the People and Nature - Galway Biodiversity Project, an action of the Galway County Heritage Plan 2004 - 2008. For further information, please contact the project manager Elaine O'Riordan at the details below.

Galway County Biodiversity Project Manager
Applied Ecology Unit,
Centre for Environmental Science,
NUI, Galway
Phone 091 493863
Fax 091 494598